Best Practice I

Title of the practice: CASH AWARDS TO STUDENTS

Objectives of the Practice:

The main objective of the practice is to recognize the students for their academic performance and to create an atmosphere of healthy competition among students. The Academic Performance award is open to undergraduate and Post Graduate students. According to the scheme, the students who secure highest marks in the Public Examination will be awarded with a cash prize. Such appreciation leads to the realization of the importance of hard work, not only among the awardees, but also among the other students.

The Context:

A teacher's joy is derived from the success of the students. The academic interest of the students is doubled with incentives by the college as encouragement. Now-a-days the student youth tend to fall into a state of lethargy. The potential of the students is identified and gets rewarded. The success of the students is the success of the college. This practice is designed in the scenario of academic competition among students.

The Practice:

Merit incentives will be awarded in the form of cash to the students based on the marks obtained in the public examinations. The merit awards are instituted by working staff members in the name of their parents and by retiring staff by their own names. The lump sum amount donated by them is held as a fixed deposit in the name of the Principal of the college. The interest accrued upon the deposit is used for giving the awards in the form of cash. Students achieving highest marks from among their peers in the Public examinations are considered eligible for the awards from the academic sphere. These cash awards are presented to the eligible students on the day of August 15th celebrations. The College gives away these awards as incentives and encouragement to the best performers.

- Prof.K.V. Ramana Memorial Prize for MBA student who scores highest marks in Public Examination sponsored by Dr.G. Tammaiah,Retired Principal
- Sri Panja Venkata Rao Memorial Award for Zoology student who scores highest marks in Public Examination sponsored by Sri P. Krishna Mohan, Retired HOD of Zoology

- Late Sri Chunduri Bapanna & Chunduri Suramma Cash award for BA student who scores highest marks in Public Examination sponsored by Sri S.V.Rama Sastry Retired Junior Assistant.
- Late Sri Chunduri Bapanna & Chunduri Suramma Cash award for B. Com (General) student who scores highest marks in Public Examination sponsored by Sri S.V.Rama Sastry Retired Junior Assistant
- Late Sri K.V. Suresh Babu memorial Cash prize for Hindi student who scores highest marks in Public Examination sponsored by Sri K.Sasi Kumar, Head of the Department of English

Evidence of Success:

The cash awards are publicized in student handbook. The students come forward to seek the guidance of the teachers in their quest for the award. They feel encouraged to compete with other students to excel in their studies. Through this practice students who are dull in studies and shy in attitude have been seen to become active. The target is thus set for the high performers to win the award. Students feel encouraged to compete for the top position and excel in studies. It is seen that the students themselves come forward and seek the guidance of their mentors and teachers in their quest for the award.

Best Practice II

Title of the practice: ORIENTATION TO NEW STUDENTS

Objectives of the Practice:

New students who have taken admission to various programmes in the College need to be familiarized with the College, its Motto, Vision, Mission, facilities, rules, discipline, etc. They also need to be briefed about the Semester examination adopted by the college pattern followed by Andhra Pradesh State Higher Education Council (APSCHE) Mangalagiri and Affiliated Adikavi Nannaya University for its different programmes, and the internal assessment methodology adopted by the institution. The practice also seeks to familiarize every student with the peers as well as the College staff-Principal, Teaching and non-teaching staff, etc. It seeks to make them aware of the location and utility of various facilities offered by the institution.

The Context:

The practice is meant to serve as an ‘ice breaking’ exercise by the College to make the students feel comfortable in their new surroundings. Students admitted to the undergraduate programmes in the College come from various backgrounds. They are admitted after passing from different Boards. They are students from Telugu and English media of instruction. Further, their earlier education is from various Junior Colleges, which have their own set of rules, regulations, values and ways of functioning. The practice has been pioneered by the institution for more than the last five years by holding as an Induction Programme introduced by Commissioner of Collegiate Education, Andhra Pradesh. The programme serves to introduce them to the essence of the institution through a warm welcome by the Principal, staff and coordinators of various Cells.

The Practice:

New admissions generally begin after the declaration results of Board of Intermediate Education. Classes too, begin soon after sufficient admissions are completed subject to the instruction of APSCHE. The subject teachers begin to orient their students on a smaller scale by conducting bridge courses. This serves to orient the new students to their subject and subject teachers, but they remain unfamiliar with other new students, office staff and facilities. Keeping this in view, a day is designated to hold a special Orientation Programme which is held in the College Seminar hall accommodating the large number of newly admitted students. Students are informed through notices as well as through social media groups about the Orientation Programme.

The Programme begins with an address by the Principal who welcomes them on behalf of the College. The controller of the examinations explains the examination system followed by the Affiliating University for different programmes. He also explains the Internal Assessment System in the College- the Mid-Term Examinations and Semester-end examinations

Students are made aware of Program outcomes and program specific outcomes to make them aware of expectations of the College from them. They are briefed about the various Cells functioning in the College to guide them towards their personality development through co-curricular and extra-curricular activities by these cells. They are also briefed about keeping in touch with scheduled activities, circulars, time tables etc. through the College website and the College Calendar.

Coordinators of different Cells take turns to speak about their objectives and activities. Anxieties of the students are laid to rest especially by the coordinators of the Anti-ragging Cell and the Women Empowerment Cell against Sexual Harassment. Information is provided by the respective in-charges for enrolment in NCC or NSS and the benefits from them. They are briefed about importance of participation in sports. The Librarian provides details all the available resources in the library for general reading as well as examinations.

Evidence of Success:

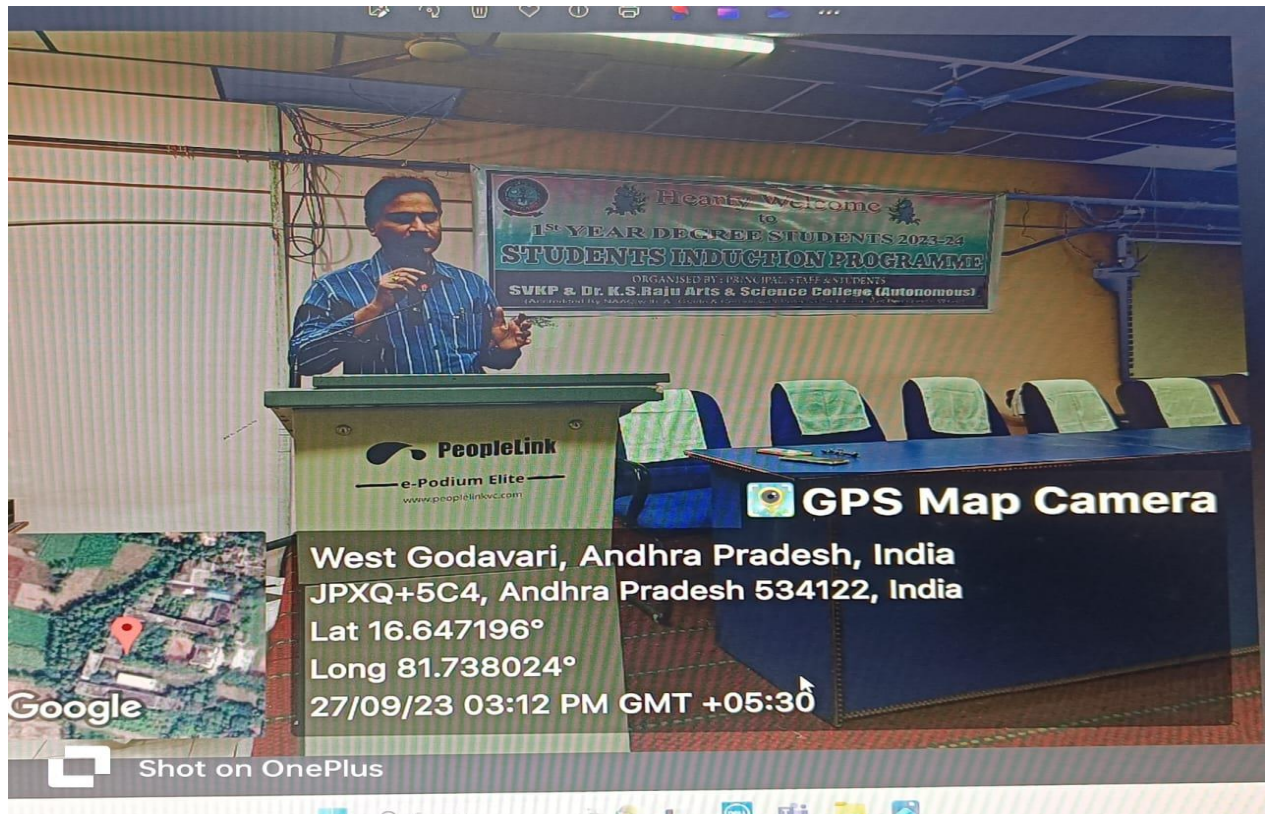

The comfort levels of the new students are seen evident improvement through this practice. They are seen to adjust well with the routine of the institution much faster and easily. The values of discipline are imbibed early into them, when they become well versed with the etiquette expected of them, when interacting with teachers, non-teaching staff and peers. There is an ease of movement to classes, to the library and College canteen during intervals since they are now familiarized with the surroundings. They become aware of various schedules and deadlines, both academic and extra-curricular, and actively seek out the Cell in-charges for enrolment and participation in spheres of their interest and expertise. This is especially so where enrolments, such as in the National level organizations viz. NCC and NSS, are time bound. The points touched upon by various speakers during the Orientation programme also serve to give them the required Dos and DON'Ts along with the other necessary information. Students not only become familiar with their peers, but also become acquainted with senior students.

Problems Encountered and Resources Required:

The key to the success of the Orientation programme lies in the ability to target the maximum possible number of new students. However, the admissions process continues late into the first semester, with revisions in the online OAMD admission process.
